DRESS FORMS

HIGH-QUALITY DRESS FORMS

Smart dress forms that can be set to exact measurements, so you can sew garments and collections in precisely the sizes you want.
Our dress forms can easily be adjusted at the neck, bust, waist, hips and nape.
They have graduations in inches and centimetres. The body is made of lightweight plastic with a felt cover and foam backing, so pins can be inserted when garments are draped or fitted.
A dress form is a three-dimensional model of a torso used in the design process to ensure that the finished product fits the person it is designed for.
It lets you view your design from a distance and all the way around the body, so throughout the process you can see how far you have come and how your design fits the body.

When choosing a dress form, consider gender, sizes and adjustment options, and whether you need extra features for sewing trousers and a pin gripper for hemming.

What is the difference between thumbwheel adjustment and dial adjustment?
The functionality is the same.

Thumbwheels work by rolling the wheel up to close and down to open.

Dials work by holding down the white button and turning the dial to the left to close and to the right to open.

Whichever adjustment mechanism you choose, we always recommend opening each section evenly in small steps and gradually building up to large expansions of the form.
